3. Search

Applicants hereby submit that a pre-examination search has been made by a professional searcher, (a copy of which is attached), in the following classes and subclasses:

Class	Subclass
707	204
711	111, 112, 113, 114, 162, 165, 167
714	5, 6, 7

4. Copy of References

A listing of all references found by the professional searcher is provided on a Form PTO-1449 and copies of the references and the Form PTO-1449 are submitted as part of an Information Disclosure Statement (IDS) filed on even date.

5. Detailed Discussion of the References and Distinctions Between the References and the Claims

Below is a discussion of the references uncovered by the search and cited in the IDS filed on even date that appear to be most closely related to the subject matter encompassed by the claims of the present application, and which discussion particularly points out how Applicants' claimed subject matter is distinguishable over those references. All other references uncovered by the search and cited in the IDS filed on even date are not treated in detail herein.

a. Detailed Discussion of the References

U.S. Patent Publication Number 2004/0024975 (Morishita et al.) discloses a remote copy for duplicating data in a storage system at a remote place. The system includes a synchronous remote copy for transferring data to a secondary storage control unit before a termination report of write processing carried out in response to a write request from the host (1), or another storage system (2), and an asynchronous remote copy for transferring data to a secondary storage control unit asynchronously with a write request after a termination report of write processing (see, figures and paragraphs [0022]-[0040]).

U.S. Patent Publication Number 2004/0153719 (Achiwa et al.) discloses a information processing system including a first storage apparatus and a first information processing apparatus that accesses the first storage apparatus installed on a first site; a second storage apparatus and a second information processing apparatus that accesses the second storage apparatus installed on a second site; and a third storage apparatus and a third information processing apparatus that accesses the third storage apparatus installed on a third site. A synchronous system or an asynchronous system may be employed depending on differences in the condition in sending a data write completion notice from a storage apparatus set as a replication source to an information processing apparatus when data is written in the storage apparatus set as the replication source (see, figures, claims and paragraphs [0047] +).

U.S. Patent Number 5,937,414 (Souder, et al.) discloses a method and apparatus for replicating data. The method allows changes to the same body of data to be replicated synchronously to some destination sites and asynchronously to other destination sites. Such mixed propagation configurations allow synchronous updating to selected remote copies of replicated data where data integrity is a high priority, and asynchronous propagation to remaining copies of replicated data in order to allow transactions to be committed locally regardless of whether the transaction is committed at a remote copy of the replicated data (see, figures and summary).

U.S. Patent Numbers 5,555,371 (Duyanovich et al.), 5,615,329 (Kern et al.), 5,673,382 (Cannon et al.), 5,870,537 (Kern et al.), 6,477,627 (Ofek), 6,587,935 (Ofek), 6,813,683 (Tabuchi et al.), U.S. Patent Application Numbers 2003/0105934 (Kimura et al.), 2003/0145168 (LeCrone et al.), 2003/0188233 (Lubbers et al.), 2003/0200387 (Urabe et al.), 2004/0230756 (Achiwa et al.), 2004/0230859 (Cochran et al.) and European Patent Number 1283469 (Nakano et al.) disclose multi-site synchronous/asynchronous remote copy systems.

b. Distinctions Between the References and the Claims

The present invention as recited in the claims filed are not taught or suggested by any of the above noted references whether taken individually or in combination with each other or in combination with any of the other references now of record.

The present invention as recited in the claims is directed to a system that includes a computer and a storage subsystem, wherein the computer duplicates data and writes them into plural storage areas of the storage subsystem, and wherein the storage subsystem transfers content of data update into a first storage area among the plural storage areas, in which the data have been duplicated and written, to a second storage subsystem connected to the storage subsystem before a request of the computer for the data update to the storage area is completed, and wherein the storage subsystem transfers the content of the data update into a second storage area among the plural storage areas, in which the data have been duplicated and written, to a third storage subsystem connected to the storage subsystem after a request of the computer for the data update to the storage area is completed.

The above described features of the present invention, particularly where the storage subsystem transfers content of data update into a first storage area among the plural storage areas, in which the data have been duplicated and written, to a second storage subsystem connected to the storage subsystem before a request of the computer for the data update to the storage area is completed, and where the storage subsystem transfers the content of the data update into a second storage area among the plural storage areas, in which the data have been duplicated and written, to a third storage subsystem connected to the storage subsystem after a request of the computer for the data update to the storage area is completed, or where the transfers are by synchronous and/or asynchronous remote copy, are not taught or suggested by any of the references of record whether taken individually or in combination with each other.
